Princess Nellie was not an ordinary princess. She was not afraid of anything. The queen and all the members of the court begged Nellie to act like a “sweet little princess.”

But Nellie was happy just the way she was.

One day, when Nellie was being particularly daring, she slipped!

The queen called for the court physicians.

They didn't help at all. So the queen called for the court jester.

But the jester was too silly. So the queen called for Nellie's royal pets.

What noise they made! Suddenly everyone was still. Where was Nellie?

They looked everywhere.

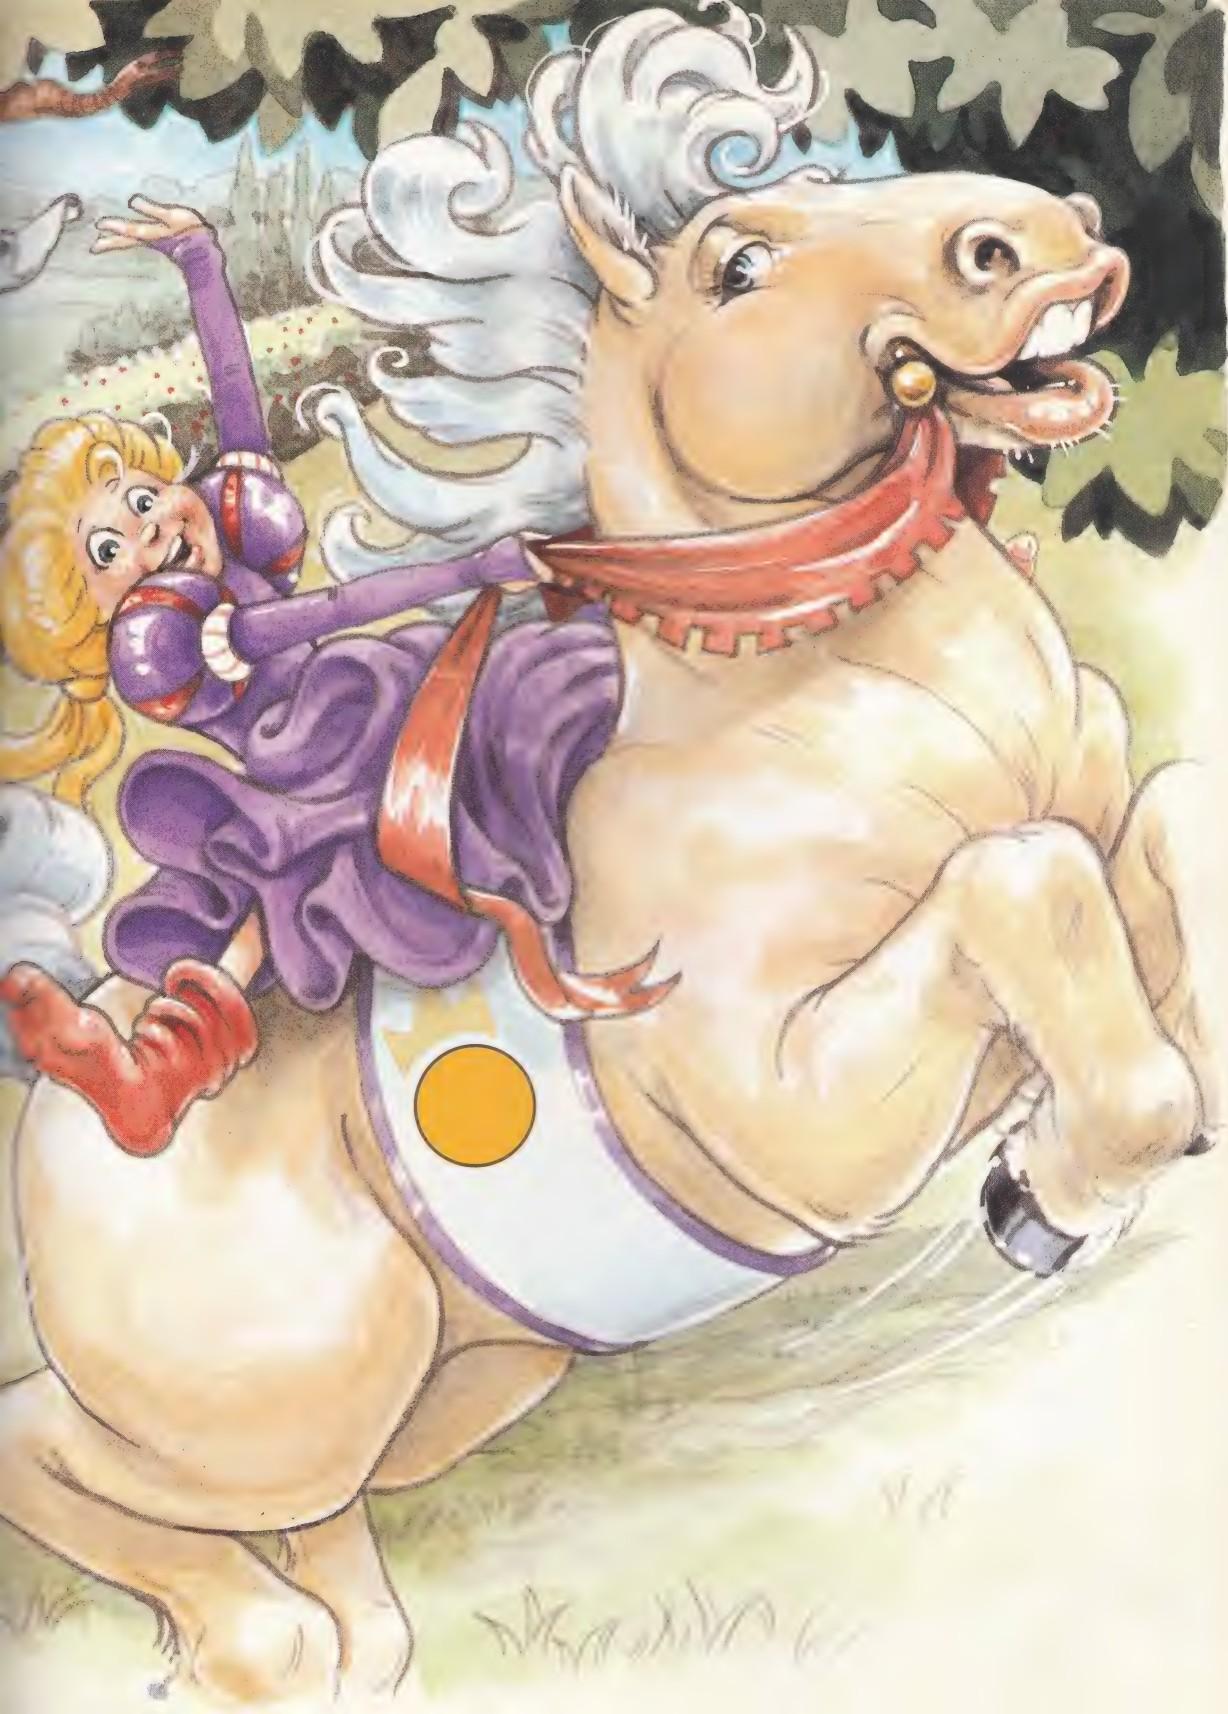

Finally they found her. She was in the royal apothecary.

Princess Nellie was not an ordinary princess. But she knew that an ordinary bandage was the best thing for a scraped knee!
